

Annual Reporting Service

Simplify the process of unclaimed property compliance and avoid administrative headaches.

We'll deliver a solution that's right for you.

Standard services include:

- Receiving records in any format
- Determining eligibility of accounts to be reported
- Preparing all reports (including preliminary, final and negative)
- Securely delivering reports and required paperwork to the states
- Maintaining historical records for client or state reference
- Providing/meeting all state due diligence requirements
- Following strict confidentiality and security policies and procedures

Increasing public and regulatory scrutiny has made companies of all kinds increasingly concerned with fiscal financial reporting practices – including compliance with rules for the disposition of unclaimed assets.

Fifty states and four other jurisdictions have an annual reporting requirement for unclaimed property, and these laws change from year to year. The task of tracking these complex requirements and then applying them to records examination can be time-consuming, expensive and frustrating, especially if your company lacks specialized legal, technological and accounting expertise in this area.

Conduent can help. Our Annual Reporting Service provides a full-service solution for effectively and efficiently meeting all unclaimed property reporting requirements. This solution, backed by our legal experts, proprietary escheatment system and, most importantly, our reputation for excellence, is the most comprehensive and accurate solution of its kind available today.

Through our Annual Reporting Service, we've brought together the elements necessary to assist your business with annual unclaimed property reporting. No matter what level of service you choose, from consulting to complete outsourcing, you gain the expertise of our nationally-recognized staff of experts in unclaimed property law compliance, accounting and technology.

Since our founding, we've kept our focus on putting clients first, always. They tell us we're attentive to their business needs and responsive to their changing priorities. We pride ourselves on getting the job done right, reliably and honestly.
