More than eighty percent of Medicaid beneficiaries are now enrolled in managed care. Many of these enrollees have multiple conditions, chronic diseases or significant socioeconomic concerns that complicate access to and the effectiveness of care delivery.

On top of this, beneficiary enrollment continues to increase and more members with complex issues are supported by managed care plans.

Member Engagement and Care Integrations Services

Health management can be challenging, especially when addressing costly chronic conditions in a transient population. Value-Based Care and Payment Reform

Many Medicaid managed care organizations are accepting risk while reimbursing providers with incentives that don't match today's care delivery landscape. To be successful, payment at the provider level must incent quality care and efficiency, not just pay for volume. We make provider performance transparent and actionable by establishing proper incentives. Episode payment and cost and quality scorecards, aligned with value-based payment adjustments, are essential for you to share risk with the frontline decision makers who are driving cost and quality. And proper payment methods and enhanced cost analysis provide actionable information when you are negotiating rates.

Administrative Efficiency and Cost Containment

In a constantly changing market, your plan will have to comply with more prescriptive data analysis and performance reporting requirements, meet federal and state mandates, respond to member and provider requests, meet basic government requirements for timeliness and accuracy, and safeguard against fraud, waste and abuse. We help you to handle the continual turnover of enrollees, the complexities of eligibility and the critical financial reconciliations. Administrative efficiency and cost containment allow your plan to focus on developing partner relationships among payer, providers and patients to support the aim of improved member health.
